Phentermine 37.5mg is the most commonly prescribed and highest-strength dose of phentermine hydrochloride – the gold-standard appetite suppressant for short-term weight loss treatment. This iconic blue-and-white speckled tablet (often recognized as Adipex-P® or generic) has helped millions achieve significant weight loss when combined with diet and exercise.

Approved by the FDA since 1959, phentermine 37.5mg remains the most effective and widely used prescription weight loss medication available today.

How Phentermine 37.5mg Works

Phentermine is a sympathomimetic amine that works as a powerful central nervous system stimulant to:

- Suppress appetite dramatically
- Increase energy and metabolism
- Reduce food cravings
- Promote fat burning

Effects typically last 10–14 hours, making the 37.5mg dose ideal for once-daily morning administration to control hunger throughout the day.

Dosage & Administration

Standard Use:

- Take 1 tablet (37.5mg) once daily in the morning
- Best taken before breakfast or 1–2 hours after
- May be taken whole or split in half (15mg + 22.5mg) if prescribed
- Never take in the afternoon/evening (may cause insomnia)

Typical Treatment Duration:

- 3–12 weeks maximum (short-term use only)
- Requires physician monitoring
- Must be combined with diet and exercise

Who Qualifies:

- BMI \geq 30 (obese) or
- BMI \geq 27 with weight-related conditions (hypertension, diabetes, etc.)
